

RADAR

WHO & WHAT YOU SHOULD BE
CHECKING OUT THIS MONTH

Curated by Armesh Ghose

Actor

RAJSHRI DESHPANDE

Definitely one of the most striking acting powerhouses in the indie space for a while now, Deshpande has been a part of some of the most popular web shows, the latest being The Kaye Game, where she rubs shoulders with Michael Dick. Having won over audiences earlier in Sacred Games, McMafia, Moon, The Sky Is Pink, the gut-wrenching Sixty Six, and as host Chaghta in Flavors, Deshpande delivers a measured performance in the latest Netflix thriller as a toughened queer police officer who balances the care of a lifetime, and her tumultuous relationship at home.

RADAR

Indulge

ARAIYA PALAMPUR, PALAMPUR

Want a serene nook to yourself, away from the sound and fury of the city, nestled at the edge of a rustic farm-forward village surrounded by pine forests, with an unrestricted, majestic view of the Dhauladhar range? Your next pampering me-time should be at Araiya Palampur, a sonneting luxury resort, with tastefully designed villas and suites, situated in the Kangra Valley of Himachal Pradesh. While the Instagrammable panoramas of the snow-capped peaks is unmissable, Araiya's warm and nurturing hospitality is also worth writing home about. With a fantastic restaurant, a terrace gentleman's bar, heated pool, luxurious lawn, gym, and a spa, the property is the perfect mountain escape. On request, Araiya Palampur organizes hikes, romantic outdoor lunches, walks through tea gardens, and is a short drive away from favourites like Dharamsala and the Billing. In today's overpopulated Himachal Pradesh, finding a lavish getaway cut off from the bustle, but adequately connected to tourist hotspots, is rare. One should also specially mention the grandmotherly-authentic Himachali cuisine served by the property, a heartwarming experience in itself. Driven by sustainable practices, indigenous farming, water-intelligent setups, and supportive of local communities, Araiya Palampur should definitely be on your next must-go-right-now list.

Indulge

ARAIYA PALAMPUR, PALAMPUR

Want a serene nook to yourself, away from the sound and fury of the city, nestled at the edge of a rustic farm-forward village surrounded by pine forests, with an unrestricted, majestic view of the Dhauladhar range? Your next pampering me-time should be at Araiya Palampur, a sprawling luxury resort, with tastefully designed villas and suites, situated in the Kangra Valley of Himachal Pradesh. While the Instagrammable panorama of the snow-capped peaks is unmatched, Araiya's warm and nurturing hospitality is also worth writing home about. With a fantastic restaurant, a terrace gentleman's bar, heated pool, luxurious lawns, gym, and a spa, the property is the perfect mountain escape. On request, Araiya Palampur organises hikes, romantic outdoor lunches, walks through tea gardens, and is a short drive away from favourites like Dharamsala and Bir Billing. In today's overpopulated Himachal Pradesh, finding a lavish getaway cut off from the bustle, but adequately connected to tourist hotspots, is rare. One should also specially mention the grandmotherly-authentic Himachali cuisine served by the property, a heartwarming experience in itself. Driven by sustainable practices, indigenous farming, water-intelligent setups, and supportive of local communities, Araiya Palampur should definitely be on your next must-go-right-now list.
